Aledo fourth grader Karly Laughley has been placed on the 2014 America's Top 100 Gymnasts list.

This list includes the top 100 scores in the United States for each level of gymnastics (levels 1-10) on each apparatus (floor exercise, balance beam, uneven bars and vault).

Laughley is a Level 3 competitive gymnast at Impact Athletic Training Center in Aledo. She scored a 9.850 out of 10.0 on floor exercise to make the list. Also on the list is Aubrey Miller, an Aledo sixth grader, who scored a 9.750 on floor exercise as a Level 6 gymnast earlier this year. Other Impact gymnasts who have appeared on the list are Jordan Prokell and Adelaide Lovett with scores of 9.675 and 9.650 on floor exercise, respectively.

"It is quite an accomplishment for any gymnast to make America's Top 100, but to have four of my athletes make the list this year is incredibly exciting," said Sydnie Evans, owner and team director. "We just opened our gym a little over a year ago and it has been amazing to see so much talent here in Parker County."

Laughley will compete in the Level 3 state championships Nov. 8-9 at Texas Woman's University in Denton. Miller and Prokell are training at Level 7 and will compete Dec. 18-21 at the 2014 Atlantis Crown Invitational in Paradise Island, Bahamas.

Aledo Middle School seventh grader Janessa Payne qualified for the 2014 NFL Punt, Pass & Kick Cowboys Team Championship competition after an exceptional performance in the sectional competition. She competed Saturday, Nov. 1, at AT&T Stadium in Arlington.

Janessa says the competition involves measurement, accuracy and distance. She has been practicing for three years after her mother initially suggested the idea.

"I'm really excited about this weekend because if I win, I get to go to the AFC and NFC championship games," she said.
