

Community grand opening includes Hudson benefit

Impact Athletic Training Center and CrossFit City View will host a free community grand opening celebration Saturday, Jan. 24 from 1:30 -3:30 p.m. at their new location, 100 Nu Energy Drive in Aledo. The event will benefit Cameron Hudson, an Aledo High School student tragically burned in a fire accident last November.

Festivities will commence with remarks by Mayor Kit Marshall followed by a fire safety presentation with the Aledo Volunteer Fire Department.

CrossFit City View will host a benefit workout of the day and FunWOD for kids with prizes for the top male and female finisher, and Impact's award-winning gymnastics team will perform and hold a flip-a-thon. All events will raise money for Hudson. Other activities include games, face painting, a bounce house, raffles, cotton candy, fire truck and ambulance tours, and shopping with Glitzy Gals and Jamerry Nails. Discounted memberships will also be offered at both gyms during the event.

"We are so excited to show the community our new facility while also making an 'impact' on a local resident in need," said Sydnie Evans, owner and team director of Impact.

"CrossFit City View is deeply committed to the community and a big supporter of our local fire departments," said Amy Mays, owner of CrossFit City View. "We're very excited about showing the community what we are all about while also supporting a local family in need."

Aledo celebrating with annual chili benefit

It's almost chili time at the Aledo Community Center.

And regardless of the weather Saturday, Jan. 24, there will be friendly warmth inside as the community gathers – as it has since 1973 – to have an old-fashioned reunion, eat some great varieties of homemade chili, and raise funds for the operation of the center.

The event gets underway at 5 p.m. for the chili supper and silent auction of baked goods. It lasts until 8 p.m., or until the visiting is done and cleanup is completed. The Aledo Economic Development Corp. sponsors the event.

Tickets, at just $5 apiece for adults and $3 for children younger than 8, can be purchased at Aledo City Hall and the East Parker County Library. And it's all you can eat. For additional information contact Community Event Planner Teddi Lee at 817-441-7016.

Heritage society welcomes Holocaust survivor

Parker County Heritage Society is meeting Jan. 20 at 6:30 p.m. at Curtis Elementary, 501 W Russell St., Weatherford. The meeting will be held in the school library on the second floor. Holocaust survivor Paul Kessler will speak. Kessler is on the board of directors for the Holocaust Museum in Dallas. He was born in Slovakia and was five years old when Nazi armies entered the country. He and his mother survived because a courageous farmer hid them from the Nazis.

Last year, PCHS helped fund the 6th graders at Curtis Elementary to a field trip to The Holocaust Museum. PCHS invites students and adults to attend this interesting meeting and meet Mr. Kessler.
